To Whom It May Concern:

As a senior neuroscientist involved in biomedical research related to neuropsychiatric disorders and Associate Editor of a leading biomedical research journal, I am delighted to see the initiative of Mr. Zoltan A. Mogan in setting up a Bipolar & Schizophrenic Scholarship Fund. Unfortunately, the social stigma associated with mental disease remains to be a serious injustice in our society that raises the bar for young and talented individuals who have the misfortune of being afflicted with such disorders. A scholarship fund to assist such individuals in their efforts to gain higher education and become highly productive members of our society is quite unique and highly laudable. I would strongly recommend this fund as a recipient of charitable donations from all those who feel that it is high time that we, as a civilized society, strive to remove the last vestiges of stigma associated with mental disease.
